

Apply Science to Help Hold Polluters Accountable

Communities harmed by climate change are increasingly turning to the courts for remedies and they need our help.

The UCS Science Hub for Climate Litigation works to build greater capacity within the scientific community to conduct and communicate legally relevant research in order to hold polluters accountable for their damage and disinformation, and help communities build resilience against future climate impacts.

JOIN US

Scan the code to learn more about the UCS Science Hub for Climate Litigation

